

Sentence correction

Fill in the blanks.

1. He was angry, I said nothing.

so therefore hence

2. This is my friend works with me.

he who

whom

3. I was trying to concentrate, he was disturbing me.

Since

Sentence correction

While

Whereas

4. I fired at the tiger, he shook my arm.

Since

As

Then

5. This is my house I live.

where there

here

Sentence correction

6. This is a nice book might interest you.

which

that

Either could be used here

7. This is my cousin about I was telling you.

who

whom

that

Answers

1. He was angry, so I said nothing.
2. This is my friend who works with me.
3. While I was trying to concentrate, he was disturbing me.

Sentence correction

4. As I fired at the tiger, he shook my arm.

5. This is my house where I live.

6. This is a nice book which might interest you.

7. This is my cousin about whom I was telling you.

Explanation

In a sentence you can't have two main clauses neither separated by a full stop nor linked by a conjunction.

You can, for example, say:

This is my house. I live here.

But you can't say:

This is my house, I live here. (The two main clauses must be either separated by a full stop or joined by a relative pronoun or conjunction.)

In the same way, you can say:

This is my cousin. I was telling you about him.

But you can't say:

This is my cousin, I was telling you about him.